About Us

We started to produce high-quality laboratory and hospital equipments thanks to our thirty years of experience in the electricity industry.

We are growing by adding new products to the product range, expanding our product line, as well as developing our sales and export markets.

In order to sell a product that needs an after-sell service, we are trying to predict our customers' probable problems, minimize user errors with our technology, provide a training for your team that gives a self-technical service chance on your location.

We know very well the importance of the sales and the distribution and keep going with an awareness that our main mission starts after the sale.

Production

We produce our products with an understanding that gives priority to those who use them. In order to manufacture trouble-free, long-term and productivity oriented products, we use high technology and right materials.

Thanks to our experiences in energy production, we aim to be a company that respects the world and the environment, humanity, human health which is our main field of activity, future generations and itself.
